PRUNE GROWERS COMBINE TO SET OPENING PRICES

September 3 has been set by the now successful United Prune Growers of California as the day on which the opening prices on the prune crop of 1932 will be announced.

This was the statement issued by Chairman Hugh Hersman as the field workers continued their endeavors to fortify the contracts already received and to obtain the necessary legal waivers for the extensions. The prune pool became a success before the close of the first extension, but a further extension, until September 2 was agreed upon in order that all legal tests could be applied to the contracts and any irregularities straightened out. Waivers are also being asked for the reduction of the needed tonnage from 170,000 to 160,000 for the first as well as for the second and third year of the pool.

Local crop deliveries are nearly ready and unless opening prices are set very shortly, the market will open chaotically. But no opening price can be announced until all waivers are signed, according to reports from campaign headquarters yesterday told of the efforts of the leaders to have everything ship-shape and beyond all legal entanglements before opening prices were announced.

"It is encouraging", the report added, "to realize that a total of 170,127 tons of prunes have been signed to the Growers Marketing agreement. We do not feel it is fair to deprive a small minority of growers of the marketing opportunities resulting from the pool merely because they did not completely understand how to make their contracts with us valid. Therefore, although even more than the required 170,000 tons were signed to contracts in support of the Prune Industry Plan in a campaign featured by the earnest effort of many workers it will be necessary to resubmit the program once more to the growers of California."

"The foundation of the California Prune Pool must be on firm ground and a contract must be complete that cannot now or at any time in the future have any question of doubt raised as to its validity. The foundation upon which such an important undertaking as the Prune Pool Industry Plan was built is an assurance of its success or its failure and the determination of this plan due to faulty contracts."

Ballots Sent To Voters Yesterday

The Campbell Post office announces that all sample ballots have now been delivered to the registered voters of this district. If any voter who has registered for this primary and has not received their sample ballots he may obtain them from the office of the County Registrar, 227 N. First street, San Jose.

VACATION OVER

Miss Laura Blaine and Miss Charlotte Jamison of San Francisco have returned from a vacation in Santa Cruz to be at home with Miss Blaine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Blaine for a few days.

Local Kiwanis Host Club In Divisional Golf Tournament

Campbell Kiwanis, as host club, invite all Kiwanian golfers to participate in the semi-annual, Division 12 Golf Tournament, to be held September 18, at 8 a. m. at the La Rinconada Country Club.

Ten clubs have entered teams in the tournament, consisting of Monterey, Santa Cruz, Palo Alto, Salinas, San Jose, Gilroy, Mountain View, Watsonville, Los Gatos and Campbell. There are already 75 entries signed up and a large number are expected to be on hand when the tournament opens. Included among the early entrants are several of Campbell's best golfers: Dr. Ed Fanning, Ralph Hyde, Herold Morton, Guy Farley, Roy Archibald and Carl Field. They believe that their chances of carrying off the much-coveted cup, won last year by San Jose, are particularly good.

The fee is $1.50, which includes green fees and prizes. Lunch can be obtained at the club but the cost is not included in the fee. The play is 18 holes at handicap-medial play with a handicap limit of 30.

There is the large Division cup for the chief prize, now held by San Jose a maximum team of 6 and a minimum team of 4. Also there are individual prizes for low gross and low net. All Kiwanians are eligible for these prizes whether team members or not.

The Campbell Kiwanians invite all members to bring their wives, as arrangements have been made for bridge at the club house. They also urge all clubs in Division 12 to collect as large a turn-out as possible so as to insure the success of the tournament.

Anyone interested in further particulars should get in touch with Carl Field, Box 187.

Plans Formed For Hoover Club By Campbell Women

A group of Campbell women accompanied Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, chairman of the local Hoover for President organization to San Jose to a called meeting of the county leaders.

Mrs. L. T. Smith, county chairman, announced that plans for active work are being arranged in the various districts. In the cities and larger towns, headquarters are being opened, usually in conjunction with the men's clubs, and it is expected that a series of public meetings and teas will be held frequently during the next several months.

One of the first of these teas will take place next Wednesday, from 2 until 6 p. m. in the gardens of Mrs. Paul Shoup of Los Altos.

After the primary elections at the end of this month, an active campaign will be conducted for members who will support the Hoover-Curtis ticket in the November elections.

Local politics were not stressed but it was suggested that candidates for office who are in sympathy with the president and his ideals, and would aid in putting through his plans, be supported in the coming elections.

Prune Head Thanks The Press For Aid In Successful Drive

The Editor
Campbell Press
Dear Sir:

From my own viewpoint it has been a very great pleasure to help in this campaign, principally for the reason that I grew up in the business of raising prunes and can readily understand the grower's way of looking at marketing problems.

I feel certain that your paper, through its unfailing support of this campaign has made many friends among the prune growers in your section.

Whatever the result, I wish to convey my sincere appreciation to you for the support you have accorded the prune growers in their fight for better conditions within the industry.

Very truly yours,
Harry F. Schumann,
Chairman, Publicity
Growers Committee

Aldrich-Eddlemon Wedding Here

In one of the most charming ceremonies of the season, Katherine Aldrich became the bride of Warren Eddlemon last night in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Burns on South Second street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Bennett, pastor of the Congregational church.

Immediately following the wedding a supper was served on the dining porch. Decorated in pink and blue, the porch was lovely with its Chinese lanterns, mixed flowers, greens, colored table cloths and gay decorations.

After the supper, the bride and groom departed to an unknown destination in the south for a brief honeymoon.

The bride was dressed in a gown of eggshell transparent velvet and carried a bouquet of baby roses and lilies of the valley, presenting a picture admired by all. The bridesmaid, Miss Peggy Newell, was dressed in pale blue. Gayno Eddlemon, brother of the groom, was the best man and Mr. Burns gave the bride away.

Only the immediate family were at the wedding, and these included: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eddlemon, Mrs. Lucy Murphy of Portland, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. Gayno Eddlemon, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sellmeth, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coffin, Miss Gladys Burns, Jack Burns, Henry Eddlemon, Shirley Eddlemon, Robert Burns, Peggy Newell, and Mr. and Mrs. James Burns.

The couple will make their home at 8 S. Fourth street on their return from their honeymoon. Warren Eddlemon will take up his work at his service station on the highway near Sunnyvale.

ORLAND VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lillingston of Orland will arrive here Saturday for a short visit at the home of Mrs. Hattie Baugh. Upon their return they will be accompanied by their granddaughter, Patsy Ann Lillingston and a little later they will take her to her home in Marcelline, Mo.

Commerce Group Postpones Meeting Offers Melon Feed

Due to the Labor Day holiday on September 6, and to the fact that many people will be out of town over the week-end, the Chamber of Commerce has postponed their regular monthly meeting to September 13, at 8 p. m.

A representative of the Peerless Stages will meet with the Chamber of Commerce to discuss possible re-routing and additional service at this gathering.

It is expected that a representative of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company will be on hand to offer suggestions toward the elimination of the five cent telephone toll and explain what service charges would accrue as a result.

There will also be a report made by the highway committee which has been considering the question of additional road signs with "Campbell" on them, on roads leading into the town. The Committee in charge of painting the Campbell "air sign" on the roof of one of the larger buildings in town will also make a report.

"All business men and residents of Campbell interested in our community and the community affairs are requested to attend, and join the Chamber of Commerce. Some of you might not be aware that the annual fee has been reduced to $1 so that no one might feel that joining would cause any financial inconvenience," Dan Yeager, secretary of the organization said yesterday.

A watermelon feed will be given to all those attending the meeting.

Motor Transport Gets Extension From R. R. Body

The Railroad commission has granted the Pacific Motor Transport company an extension and enlargement of its auto truck certificate permitting it to operate between San Jose, Santa Clara, Campbell and Los Gatos over the following route:

From San Jose to Santa Clara over the Alameda-Grant street; from Santa Clara City limits, south on the Santa Clara and Los Gatos road through Campbell to Los Gatos via San Jose-Los Gatos road to Stevens Creek road and Meridian road into San Jose.

No local service shall be performed between Santa Clara and Los Gatos and intermediate points.

LONE FARMERS IN CONTEST AT FAIR

The farmer who plays a lone hand and tenderly cares for his crops himself through long hours will receive special recognition at the California State Fair in Sacramento, September 3-10. A fifty dollar first prize has been set aside for the most extensive, perfect and varied exhibit of farm produce grown by one person on a farm. Second and third prizes of $30 and $15 will also be given.

This competition is open to any person who can exhibit farm produce grown and tended by himself or herself. Entries are exhibited in connection with county exhibits.

HAVE ONLY THIRD NECESSARY FRUIT FOR FREE LUNCHES

P. T. A. STILL WORKING TOWARD NEEDED AMOUNT;
FRUIT, JARS SOLICITED

Using every available jar, but still far below the necessary minimum, those in charge of the drive to provide meals for needy children during the school year renewed their urgent pleas for contributions.

Fruit that has been donated by generous orchardists of this district is in danger of rotting because of the lack of jars. Unless at least 200 jars are immediately available, the committee will be forced to use their totally inadequate reserve fund to purchase the necessary jars and thus deplete the money needed to purchase fresh food during the year. According to those in charge, there is barely enough cash to keep the lunches going a full month, even if none of it is expended for other purchases.

As one member of the working committee pointed out, "There are at least a thousand empty jars lying around in cellars right here in this town. Surely if everyone knew of the need, they would certainly take the time to phone to us. We'll be glad to call for any jars, search for them in the cellar and take them away."

Mrs. W. Van Every who is in charge of the canning operations during the absence of Miss Rowena Farman, has issued a call for volunteer workers to help out tomorrow afternoon. Those willing to work can get in touch with Mrs. Van Every, phone 47F2, or they can come to the cafeteria entrance of the grammar school at 1 p. m.

During the past week, the workers have been canning apples, peaches and pears. The total canned up to this morning amounted to approximately 500 quarts. Figuring about seven helpings for each quart, this amounts to but 3500 servings, which is only a third of what is absolutely necessary. But if the jars and fruit are available, the committee expects to work most of next week.

Some comment has been made about the type of meal that is served to these children, and those in charge have given out a typical meal, which, through contributions and the free assistance of many women in preparing the meals, amounts to about 10 cents a day for each child. An attempt is made to balance their diet, so that the ingredients probably missed in the child's home, will be furnished by these meals. There is a main dish, consisting of a meat, usually beef stew, hamburger or meat loaf, potatoes and some fresh vegetable, such as carrots or spinach. Each day, the child gets milk in some form, either in soup, with chocolate or plain. In addition, there is bread and butter and a dessert which practically always consists of fruit, the fruit that is now being prepared. With a lunch such as this, the child is sure of enough to at least keep him healthy, though there is no extravagance or waste allowed. "It is a meal that is sustaining and we hope, enjoyed, but not one superior to that furnished by the average mother to her child", Mrs. Van Every pointed out, in answer to a comment that these meals were

OUR FUTURE CITIZENS

There was a gratifying response to the request published in The Press for supplies with which to furnish lunches for the needy children during the school year. A goodly number of jars and much fruit was sent in, enough to keep the volunteer workers busy most of this week. But there is still a great deal needed. All types of contributions are welcomed, to fill out wan cheeks and bring vitality to the younger children in whose homes there is nothing but worry and want and bitterness. Nowhere is the need for help greater than among the young children. Adults can at least partially understand why they are starving and so the senseless emptiness of it hasn't the same terror that it has for a child who doesn't know why he is hungry while others seem to have enough.

It isn't only that these children haven't enough food now, but their future outlook must be considered. What kind of citizens will these children make if society forgets them now? Won't they, in turn, forget society? Won't their lives be filled with a distrust, if not with actual hate? Will they ever believe in a co-operative government, or will they desire to take what they can for themselves?

It is questions like these which must be answered before these children can be neglected. The whole scheme of our democratic government, and one of its main expenses, is predicated upon the theory of educating everyone so that they can take their place in the nation. But all that would be lost if the force of want prevents the acceptance of the education, and the attitude of respect towards the government, which goes with it.

That is one side. On the other is just the honest-to-goodness human appeal of hungry children. Of this we need say little. If the people of Campbell knew, they would help to the utmost. These children need good food and they need it this year and they need it badly. They look upon you to furnish it to them, and you must not fail. If you have fruit or jars, any food supplies, or the money with which to purchase them it would greatly help in the task of feeding these children their one free school meal each day, and send them home with respect and gratitude for the people who refused to see them go hungry.

ELECTION, AUGUST 30

Next Tuesday the voters of California will exercise their cherished prerogative, or at least they should. If democracy still retains its potency, if it is still the most satisfactory of all systems of government, then it must so prove itself. One of the few benefits of the depression is the testing that has been given, and is being given the government under which we live. Too long have we taken it for granted, accepting it as the most perfect government under the sun. But if it can weather the present storm it will at least prove itself as the strongest and the most practical, for it stands midway between communism and fascism. It is a government that goes to neither extreme. It stands for the principle that the government belongs to the people and must always remain in their hands.

But that theory is merely empty words sounding in space unless the people actually do control the government and exercise their duty in the running of it. The only way possible to do this is by voting. Once a candidate is elected, there is no way to control his actions save by impeachment and that is seldom possible. We elect our representatives and then let them control our interests, our pocket-book, almost our very thoughts. There are altogether too many people who fail to go to the poles, especially in the primaries, and then, after the election, complain bitterly about the type of man elected or the way he is conducting himself in office. Those people have no right to say a word. They are not citizens unless they act like citizens. Those people who have special interests at stake vote for the man who will befriend those interests. The only disadvantage is that the successful candidate governs all, those that want their own particular interests protected and those who failed to vote.

All of which is merely the preliminaries. It is the intelligent, average voter with no specialized interest who will determine this election. A great many voters will vote as they always have—either because their fathers and grandfathers before them voted for that party, or because they have some particular advantage, differing from the country's general welfare.

But this year, more than ever before, the independent voters, the ones who vote for men and platforms rather than blindly endorsing a party—they will decide the election. There will be much shifting of party alignments, much dissatisfaction, and, since we are honest, a great increase in the radical vote.

Which brings up still another point, and another need for a large turn-out of the intelligent citizens. Since a great number of people are going to put their faith (and vote) into the radical panacea, it will take an even greater number of sane voters to see that the party that has the greatest experience, the better men and the most workable platform—it will take a tremendous number of militant voters to see that that party gets into office. That party, we believe, is the Republican party. Not because it is an old and honored party, but because its candidates can do more to relieve the depression, because of their experience, their ability and the working machine they have built than any other party. Their platform offers more constructive measures than does the main opposition party. They have been through the storm and have learned how to deal with it. They promise nothing they cannot carry out. They do not blind the voters with easy promises, but frankly state that it will take courage and hard work to bring us back to normal.

And also, they have offered the intelligent voters intelligent candidates. Here in the Santa Clara valley we are fortunate. Though the entire nation has a chance to vote for Hoover, it is only California that offers Samuel Shortridge to the nation, and only this district that presents Arthur M. Free. Each of these three candidates has had great experience in office and each of them could stand on their record alone.

Just stop for a moment and consider what these three men have to offer to you as intelligent voters. They were elected before the depression broke out in all its fury. They were elected to carry on the wave of prosperity. But no sooner were they in office, this last election, than the bottom fell out of prosperity. Called upon to take things over at a moment's notice, they proved their worth. Not once would they allow a harum-scarum scheme to gain the ascendancy over sane judgment. Each one has voted "no" when it took courage to say "no." They risked votes to defeat the Democratic log-rolling bill which would have indebted the people of America to the tune of five billion dollars or more. They refused the soldiers' bonus, and thereby prevented the growth of a privileged class which could trade on their past at the expense of their tax-paying neighbors.

But the courage these men have shown could be proved in hundreds of instances. All we are attempting to do here is to give a general picture to the voters who intend to go into the election booth with their eyes opened—fooled by no impossible and vote-seeking promises, but willing to listen to all sides and then choose as he feels is best, choose sanity and moderation, experience and courage. But whatever candidate he makes his own, whatever platform gets his support, he must vote. Otherwise the entire fabric of our nation must go to pieces. And he knows that—witness the increased registration this year. If these people will only make the preliminary choice and vote in the primaries, then the best candidates can battle it out in November.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

"Fixed charges"—continuing and automatically increasing expenditures, voted by the people, either by initiative, or by constitutional amendment—constitute one of the major obstacles to economical government in California.

The voter's answer in the future to all new "fixed charges" should be an emphatic "No!"

That verdict—the verdict of the Agricultural Legislative Committee of California, given in behalf of its 70,000 farmer-members—must be made the verdict of farmers, business men and common taxpayers in every walk of life if there is to be an end to exorbitant spending and oppressive taxation.

California's voting taxpayers, in other words, must practice what they preach—economy!

And to practice it they must stop kiting governmental expenditures on election day.

The "fixed charge," written into the statutes or the constitution by direct vote of the people, is likewise impossible of curtailment except by a second vote of the people—a costly and slow process which blocks prompt and effective action in time of financial emergency, it was pointed out by the agricultural legislative committee.

"The comparative inflexibility of governmental budgets, due to the large proportion of 'fixed charges' voted by the people, all of which are impossible of reduction in periods of financial stress, is a prime difficulty in the way of effective economy in expenditures," the farm committee found. "Hereafter, therefore, it is recommended that new 'fixed charges' be avoided in every possible way."

Illustrative of the system of automatic increases in expenditures fostered by the "fixed charge" method, the state department of finance announces that for the coming two-year period the "fixed charge" obligations of the state's general fund will increase $6,000,000 over the preceding two years.

Economy and tax reduction advocates, at the next session of the legislature, must face, at the outset, the fact that more than half of the expenditures are beyond their control. To permit any substantial reduction in government overhead, therefore, the most drastic cuts possible must be ordered in the "un-fixed" charges—penalizing certain functions of government because others are inflexible.

The various items in the "fixed charge" roll for the coming two years, most of which are beyond curtailment except by vote of the people are: elementary schools, $42,784,000; high schools, $17,106,000; aid to orphans, $3,500,000; aid to aged, $4,000,000; aid to blind, $650,000; general bond charges, $2,460,840; state's share of superior judges' salaries, $1,288,000; salaries of legislators, $288,000; tuberculosis subsidies, $900,000; employees' retirement fund contributions, $768,000; reimbursement of counties on old bonded debt, $700,000; vocational education, $627,000; vocational rehabilitation, $140,000; teachers' retirement fund contributions, $1,050,000; university bond charges, $711,000; highway bond charges, $8,449,325.

Without making the mistake of accepting "fixed charges" as an alibi for all governmental extravagance, because half of the total is still subject to prompt reduction, California farmers should recognize the obstacle which they present and guard against this kiting of costs in the future.

There could be no greater nor more lasting step toward a return to sanity in governmental spending.

BOOKS

Spread Eagle, a play by George S. Brooks and Walter B. Lister.

In the American theater, beginning in the decade 1920-30 a new phenomenon made its appearance on the stage. For the first time, dramatists began to look into the forces of our life and civilization, rather than merely creating stories and types that existed in an impossible world. As soon as this happened, a new genre of drama resulted, one that blasted with hot scorn and biting satire the holes in our civilization.

The first popular success of this type of play was "What Price Glory?" which took the glamour out of war. That was followed, in 1927, by the play under discussion, "Spread Eagle," which exposed the unscrupulous methods whereby wars are started. Here is another indictment of war, another, and splendid, debunking of flag-waving, band playing patriotism. If anyone can believe in war, or its "noble necessity" after reading or seeing this play, there is no hope for lasting peace.

Wars, as this play proves, are not started to "defend our national honor" but to open larger markets for the goods of merchants or to protect or increase the wealth of a few controlling capitalists. War is a business—every war—but it is only recently that such sentiments could be put in print or on the stage and, what is more, be applauded by large audiences.

Here we see the great capitalist hiring a son of an ex-president of the United States and sending him to a mine in Mexico, hoping that he will be killed and thereby provoke us into a war with Mexico. In that way the capitalist's mining property will be protected. It does not matter, of course, whether soldiers are killed by bullets or dysentery, as long as money can be made from supplies and munitions. It was the same in the last war and the one before that, and it will be the same in the next. The capitalist creates the cause, decorates it with crepe paper emotions, and drums and bugles and dollar-a-year men. And all the pretty proclamations will never hide that.

The play is a forthright, well written piece of dramatic construction. Its terrible point is somewhat weakened by the last act in which there is some half-hearted attempt to show the gloriousness of the weakness (for that is what it is) of those that are the common pawns pulled into the holocaust by the figures behind the scenes. But "Spread Eagle" does uncover the rottenness behind the high sentiments of our wars and for that reason alone should be required reading for all patriots. It is so truthful, so honest and so disturbing that it should be censored to prevent people from seeing the truth.

VOTERS ATTITUDE TOWARD LOWER TAXES FORSEEN BY CANDIDATE

By Charles C. Johnson

During the present political campaign there has been one notably favorable change in the public attitude, from the former lackadaisical state of mind to one of appreciation of the part that the ever mounting taxes on real estate and improvements have in their daily lives. In the lives of every individual the tax collector is playing an ever increasingly important part. The present political campaign is truly reflecting this change in attitude. The interested observer can but note that much of the discussion now being devoted to the tax situation and its devastating effects on the citizens is primarily a recognition of demand—the demands of the people for relief.

The political campaign of 1930, for the most part, was a battle of issues that were then acute. There were few of the candidates foresighted enough to recognize taxes as a serious menace, and that the cry of "tax reduction" would become louder if measures were not then taken to curtail the pernicious additions to governmental expenditures and costs. It is true that some of the candidates for public office spoke of "tax reduction" and considered it a desirable addition to their platforms—but only one or two notable exceptions who were candidates in Santa Clara county knew anything definite about the subject of taxes and had any definite program for the reduction and readjustment of the tax burden.

Two years ago these pioneers were considered as worthy of some consideration, but their tax programs were, for the most part, relegated to that political limbo of minor subjects—at least by many voters. Mr. Frank T. Lannin was one of the candidates who was an early student and advocate of tax reform. In his campaign of 1930 against the Hon. T. M. Wright, the principal feature of Mr. Lannin's campaign was taxes. The fundamental issue in the campaign of Mr. Lannin on which he differed greatly from the campaign of Mr. Wright was the tax issue. With the retirement of Mr. Wright from the assembly, Mr. Lannin is again seeking a place in the assembly from the 31st District. Those who followed the tax fight put forward by Mr. Lannin in 1930 are noting that his program proved so popular that the new candidates, and many of the old candidates who have never before considered this issue, have accepted the principles set forth by Mr. Lannin for their own campaigns.

Some very fundamental differences exist in this matter of tax programs. The platform of this one candidate was fully set forth in the San Jose newspapers as long ago as last May, and in this printed platform there are very definite remedies for the unnecessarily high taxes which we of California are called upon to pay. This matter of being definite is not usual with those seeking public office and we note this difference in Mr. Lannin with pleasure. There is a reason why Mr. Lannin may be definite, and that reason is two-fold, or rather, should we say, a reason dependent on an established fact: Mr. Lannin is a student of government and competitive democracy with the political significance these subjects have on taxes. Volumes could be written covering our subject, but, suffice it to say that Frank T. Lannin is interested in the subject sufficiently to write these volumes and as a taxpayer who has felt the pinch of the tax-collector, the interests of the people may be considered as the interests of this candidate.

Overlapping commissions in the state government, creating unnecessary high cost positions; political appointment of inefficient individuals to places of prominence; double cost of building and improvements through over-bonding of political subdivisions and failure to "pay as we go" are some of the reasons, in brief, why taxes are high. Mr. Lannin, we note, is definite in his stand in connection with these subjects and promises, because of his experience and ability to constantly work reforms along these lines.

RE-ELECT Judge F. B. Brown

The citizens of Santa Clara County have been fortunate in the personnel of the men on the Superior Bench. Judge Gosbey and Judge Syer have no opponents at the election. The two Judges, who have worked side by side with Judge Brown, have signed his petition as Sponsors. Of the twenty signers required by law nineteen were lawyers, distinguished and respected members of the local bar.

Judge Brown's ability cannot successfully be questioned—the records of the numerous cases in which his decisions have been upheld on appeal establish this. His fairness to all parties before him has won their respect. His unfailing courtesy and kindly consideration has brought him affection and esteem. As Judge of the Juvenile Court he has shown an understanding of and sympathy with erring children which has made his administration of that court of inestimable value to this community.

There is no doubt but what the people of Santa Clara County will show their appreciation of Judge Brown's long, able and faithful service by re-electing him.

The campaign Committee of one of the candidates opposing Judge Brown lays much stress on the endorsement of the Bar Association. After an active campaign among the lawyers of the County this candidate received just one-third of all the votes of the 143 members, all of whom were given an opportunity to vote.

This County should retain the three Superior Judges who have given honest and efficient service.

PRESS OF STATE INVITED TO FAIR AT SACRAMENTO

Sacramento, Aug. 25—California editors and publishers will be special guests of Governor James Rolph Jr., and the fair directors on Saturday, September 3, opening day of the California State Fair.

The newspaper men will attend a luncheon, at which addresses will be made by Governor Rolph and others.

Following the luncheon, the guests will adjourn to the grandstand where, for the first time in the history of the fair, a block of seats will be reserved, in order that the editors and their families may be seated together.

Special headquarters for members of the newspaper profession will be established at the fair this year, it is announced by Charles W. Paine, secretary-manager.

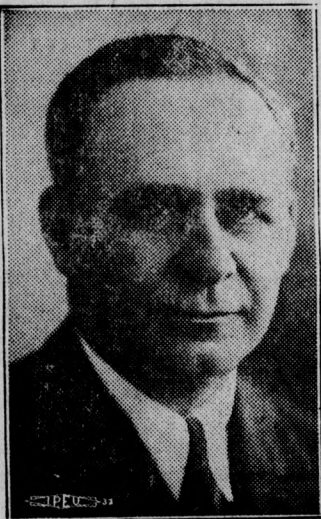

The new quarters will be at the south end of the second floor of the grandstand building, and will be divided into two sections, one for the newspaper actively engaged in "covering" the fair, and the other for members of the profession who are at the fair merely for visiting friends and to see the big show.

San Jose Speedway To Reopen Sunday With 100-Lap Race

With twenty-five entries already received indications point to an entry list of at least thirty drivers for the reopening of the rebuilt San Jose Speedway Sunday afternoon in the first thrill meet sanctioned on this track this year by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. While the 100-lap classic is the piece de resistance of the afternoon, two other events complete the program, namely, a 10-lap consolation race and time trials, it was announced by Linn Mathewson, manager of the San Jose Speedway.

An entirely new track will greet the Northern California sports enthusiasts who visit the San Jose oval. The track itself has been entirely rebuilt, more than 60,000 gallons of oil having been applied to its surface under the supervision of Louis Milani of Newark, vice-president of the Speedway Investment Corporation, operators of the San Jose Speedway. In addition, the old judges and timers stand at the edge of the pits has been removed and a small score board erected in its place so as to give spectators in the grandstand an unobstructed view of the cars at all points on the course.

Heading the list of competitors at San Jose Sunday is none other than Ernie Triplett, 1931 Pacific Coast champion and holder of more American dirt track records than any other pilot. Triplett won national fame when he hurtled his car into the lead at the Indianapolis 500-mile classic Memorial Day and held first place until a broken clutch forced him out of the going. This will be Triplett's first Northern California appearance since the great Hoosier meet.

But he won't have things his own way, especially with Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis, Lester Spangler, Kelley Petillo, Sam Palmer, Guy Deulin, Leon Duray, the sensational Frenchman; and seven eastern pilots who are making their Northern California debut in the same field. Shaw, like Triplett, went into the lead at Indianapolis last May but a broken axle snatched victory from his grasp.

The seven newcomers to the San Jose Speedway are Pinkie Richardson, Bill Hart, Bob Cregg, Cliff, Ogden, Art Boyce, Bob Austin and Don Arlen. They have enviable reputations in the East, but it is still a question of whether or not they'll be able to finish ahead of the heavy footed boys of the Pacific Coast. Many of the wisecracks are inclined to believe that they'll receive a lesson in race driving "as she should be" because the pilots from the other side of the Rockies are agreed that nowhere in the country is the competition as stiff as it is here.

When Starter George Theobald of San Jose, veteran bunting wielder of Northern California, mounts into the starting box here Sunday he'll find the following list of entrants ready to battle for gold and glory:

MAN WILL SEE AUTHORITY IN REALITY, GOD

By Reverend J. H. Bennett,
Pastor, Campbell Congregational Church

There is a word in the old, yet ever new, book that says "in those days there was no King in Israel every man did what was right in his eyes."

Modern confusion on the subject of Authority is like the man who wrote a book on women and in a revised version he wrote "Where ever in this book you find the verb 'is' put 'is not' and whenever you find the verb 'is not' put 'is' or 'maybe,' or 'perhaps,' or 'God knows.'" This interesting confusion concerning this man's idea of woman but illustrates a deeper confusion in the thinking of this modern age. Whenever you see "yes" put "no," or if you see "no" put "maybe" or "God knows." Such is the attitude of many towards the things of their Fathers. As to the reason for the disorders, economic, theological, social, in this world today there are many guesses. Amidst them all rests some of the truth. Each guess cancels the other until we are like the small boy of Milne's imagination:

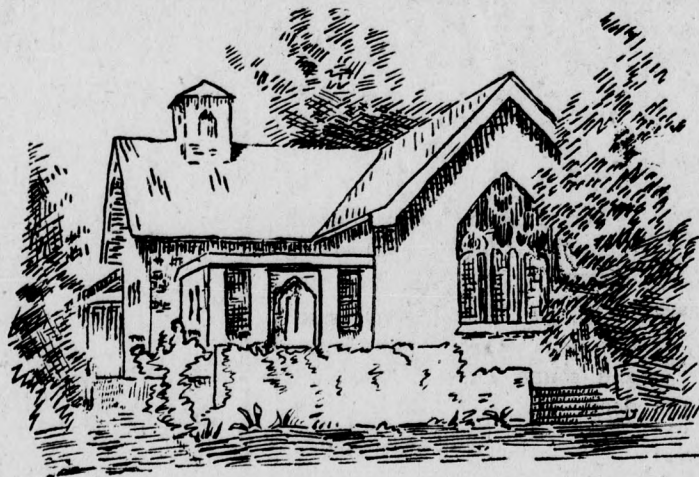

"I think I am a muffin man, I haven't got a bell;
I haven't got the muffin things that muffin people sell.
Perhaps I am a postman; no I think I am a tram.
I'm feeling rather funny and I don't know what I am; but Round about, and round about, and round about I go."

My text describes a time of change in the ancient world. A passing from the nomadic to the agricultural and settled life of the people. Naturally it was a time of protest. Every age is. Even this age is. Protest against control of any sort. Protest of child against parent. Some of the most stupid books are written in the form of novels around this protest. Youth against age, citizens against laws that restrict their so-called personal liberty, private greed against social supervision in business and the revolt of the so-called intellectuals against a too austere religion. This revolt against authority is not to be found in one sphere of human activity but is found in all activities: in law, business and in literature.

To be constructive. Criticism must precede creation. Analysis is before synthesis. The best minds today are searching not for a way of looseness but for an authority that has a directive power. It is not dogmatic authority that we desire but a directive authority. We need to enthrone a King in our society. It must be a King both internal and persuasive. The day of external and forceful authority is gone.

Neither will this Authority satisfy if it merely rests in a book however sacred. It must lie in reality. Reality is truth. The only value of the Bible to us is not as a book but in the truth that it reveals in life. In the life of our Master. "Jesus taught as one having authority" we read. He never wrote a word. He lived a life and that life has become our imperishable authority.

Today we look towards education as the greatest of all channels towards authority. In this hope we are doomed unless we realise other factors. The Christian religion has been the mother of all learning and the nurture of all real progress. There are other laws behind education. Education is only the

U. S. Figures In Bible Prophecy, Says Evangelist

The United States figures definitely in God's last message of warning. Evangelist J. Lee Neil said Sunday night at the Community hall, "If any man worship the beast or his image or receive his mark in his forehead or in his hand the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God." (Seven last plagues) Rev. 14:9, 10.

The most fearful warning in all the book of God is against the union of the church with the state to enforce false religion which existed in Europe during the dark ages, and against an image or likeness of that union to be formed in the United States. The beast power received a deadly wound when taken captive in 1798, but the wound is to heal so that the two powers will unite to force a false worship in our country, according to Mr. Neil.

Neil showed from Revelation, the 13th chapter, that there are 13 distinct points by which to identify the Beast power. Also evidence just as clear that our United States is pictured there. This subject will be continued next Sunday night showing the part the United States is to play.

The evangelist promises to prove from "The Revelation" that great changes are coming, and that the destiny of every soul is involved.

educing, the bringing out of the factors that are involved.

Unless we acknowledge the validity of the laws of physical health no educational system will save us.

Unless we acknowledge the validity of spiritual values education cannot save. Authority will never be found by destroying the laws that govern the conduct of society but only by obedience to the King who once said, "He that is of the truth heareth my words."

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES

Next Sunday morning the Rev. J. H. Bennett will preach. The subject will be "Amen, Halleluah." A children's talk will be given preceding the sermon. Music by the church choir.

At 6:30 p. m. the C. E. groups will meet for discussion.

At 7:45 p. m. C. C. Cottrell will speak in the church. Questions invited.

Sept. 1 and 2 the Guild will hold a thrift sale at the Campbell hotel. Miss Lewis, phone 131J, will be glad to arrange for articles or clothes to be collected from wherever available.

Rev. Irons Visits In San Francisco

Rev. C. E. Irons, pastor of the Methodist church was visiting in San Francisco Tuesday and Wednesday.

Address to M. E. Church Conference Defends 18th Amendment

The following are extracts from the Episcopal Address to the 1932 general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church:

The most ardent advocate of the temperance cause will gladly admit that if communities and states where public opinion demanded it, could have outlawed the alcoholic drink traffic effectively without nationalizing Prohibition, there would have been no provocation for taking this final step of Constitutional amendment. . . .

We urge a new, vigorous educational campaign by civic and Christian bodies among the youth of our land that they may know the truth in this matter. . . .

National Prohibition has the support of the sober, industrious, God-fearing, law-abiding element of the nation.

"WAGES OF SIN IS DEATH"

By Ada Bohrman

The problem of the wage-earner is very difficult today. The scale of wages has been greatly lowered in the past few months, and may vary either one way or the other in the days to come. The apostle, Paul, however, tells of certain wages that are ever the same. "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ, our Lord." Rom. 6:23. "The wages of sin is death"—how many are rushing on in sin, giving themselves no time to think of the wages they are earning? God's word says, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die," and "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man but the end thereof are the ways of death." Prov. 14:12.

Satan is a hard task master. His servants work day and night for him, rushing through the world wearing out bodies and souls and their wages are death! It is a sad picture, but the last part of that verse I quoted at first, changes the whole aspect for "the gift of God is eternal life." Eternal life is free! A gift bought with the blood of Jesus Christ—given merely for the asking to those who are willing to take Christ as their master. Jesus says "My sheep hear my voice and I know them and they follow me. And I give unto them eternal life." John 10:27,28. Are you working for Satan for the wages of sin—death—or are you accepting the gift of eternal life from Jesus Christ?

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Rev. C. E. Irons will have for his sermon topic: "Does it Matter What I believe?" at the regular 11 a. m. Sunday morning worship.

Judge E. L. Maxwell of Mountain View, candidate for the superior court, will speak on "Crime in the United States" at the evening services at 7:30 p. m. Judge Maxwell is a fluent speaker and a profitable and interesting evening is promised to all who attend the services.

Candidate Rushed, Takes Plane Trip For Quick Action

Last week C. C. Cottrell, while busily engaged in his campaign for member of the assembly, was requested by officials to talk with a prisoner at San Quentin who refused to divulge necessary information to any one else. Arriving at San Quentin, after a hurried trip, and talking with the prisoner, Cottrell found it necessary to go to Folsom prison to see a second man confined there. This could not be done by automobile and return to San Jose in time to keep a speaking engagement. Cottrell was undaunted, and immediately telephoned a friend at the San Francisco airport, who picked him up a few minutes later at the City of Richmond airport, and 20 minutes later landed him outside of Folsom prison. Returning to Richmond by the same means, Cottrell then drove to San Jose in time for his speaking appointment.

C. C. Cottrell, during the early days of the World war, was an instructor in combat flying at Hicks and Taliferro fields at Fort Worth, Texas. Later he flew overseas with the 24th Aero Squadron and holds two battle citations for meritorious service in action. Cottrell's eldest daughter, Shelley, now five years of age, has made 27 flights, all with her Dad, making her first flight on her second birthday anniversary.

Mr. Cottrell jokingly remarked, after his hurried trip to Sacramento, that he was merely getting in practice for regular flights to Sacramento next January.

RETURNS HOME

B. O. Curry, R. L. Dodge and their families have returned from a week's visit at Lake Tahoe. While there, they occupied cottages at the Miracle Resort situated at the south end of the lake, near a fine beach where bathing and fishing were fully enjoyed by the members of the party.

OPERATION

Patricia Dahlbon, five year old daughter of Marie Dahlbon, was taken to the San Jose hospital yesterday morning where an emergency operation for appendicitis was performed. Reports are that the little tot is getting along nicely.

We five candidates who are seeking office are Legislative amateurs. This in an Agricultural County. I am a farmer from muck stick to combine harvester, not an astronomer and farmer. Real contact. I fully realize our problems. Land, the base of all wealth, a liability, my real concern. Politician's relief for farmers has about relieved us of all we possess. Support my candidacy. Legislative Counsel Bureau supervised by Fred B. Wood, furnishes any and all legal advice. My stand on Muscel Shoals, adherence of Uncle Sam to World Court, etc., as requested of me by various political cliques: will say that we are politically and legally top-heavy.

Commerce Dance Proves Success

Figures on the Chamber of Commerce dance held last Saturday night were released yesterday. A gross of $40.50 was received, which, after the expenses of $31.80 were deducted, left a net profit of $8.70 which went to the Chamber of Commerce general fund.

Dan Yeager, secretary of the group suggested, for the future, that a dance plan be worked out for a year's period, with a dance to be given approximately once each month by the various organizations in town. According to his suggestion, such organizations as: Alumnae, Fire department, Ada Rebekah lodge, Odd Fellows, Masons, Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce, would get together and decide on the dates each of them preferred and thus there would be no conflicts between dances and the dances would come at regular intervals. "This is only a suggestion," he said, "and we would welcome suggestions or ideas on the subject."

KIWANIS NOTES By Heck

Jack Wallace of San Jose spoke at Kiwanis luncheon here Tuesday on "Home Owned Business" and the advantages of patronizing the home merchant. He presented a number of arguments on the subject particularly stressing the benefits to communities from the public spirited merchants who lends his support, efforts and financial aid to every public and community interest. In cases of subscription and relief the home town merchants is the first and constantly solicited citizen. He is deserving of your cooperative patronage.

Tuesday evening will be another enjoyable ladies' night. Prof. Prentiss Brown of Los Gatos schools, will be the speaker and D. H. Cramer will wield the ruler.

September 13 has been set as forum day with contestants speaking on "Today's Challenge to Kiwanis."

Little Trouble Here This Season, Evans

Except for the presence of a few harmless prowlers, Campbell has been unusually free of any even slight criminal activity during the entire summer, according to Harry Evans, deputy sheriff. Several calls have come in that men have been seen in the yards of various homes but there has been no report in town of any thefts or of any violences of any sort. Usually, during the summer, with so many transients coming into Campbell there is an increase in petty theft and misdemeanors and this year because of the depression, local police were prepared for an increase of such lawlessness.

Perhaps because of the preparedness of local law officers or because of the fact that few outsiders have come into the town, the arrests this year have dropped to a level equal to, or in proportion lower than that of any town in the state, if not in the nation.
